Ready for tomorrow...

What are we waiting for? What are our hopes for the church and our own lives? Are we longing for more of the things of God - his Kingdom, his salvation, his presence, his love, his joy, his power?

If the answer to this is yes, we need to ask ourselves, are we ready for a move of God? In the book of Joshua, in chapter 3, the people of God are camped near the Jordan river (v.1). They are told to follow behind the ark of the covenant - this vessel which hosted the presence of God (v.3). If we are to step into God's purposes for us, if we are to see God's promises fulfilled in us, then we need to seek the presence of God and follow where he leads. Although the context was very different to ours and the outworking looked very different, the Spirit of God went ahead of the people of God, they were not forging their own path. Nor were they relying on old paths - Joshua told them 'you have never been this way before' - are we prepared for God to lead us in a new direction, into new territory, with all the unfamiliarity and perceived risk that may involve?

Joshua told the people: 'Consecrate yourselves, for tomorrow the Lord will do amazing things among you.' (v.5) Joshua's faith here is striking! His expectation of what God is about to do is great and although he does not know the specifics, he says to the people in no uncertain terms that God is about to move. His expectation is so great that he stakes his reputation as a leader on his belief that God is going to do amazing things, whatever that might mean. This is faith! What makes it even more inspiring is that it is after this that God confirms to Joshua that he is going to exalt him as a leader in the eyes of Israel and tells him what the next step is (v.7). Surely this should have happened the other way round - now would have been the time to tell Israel that God was going to do amazing things, not before. But Joshua's faith was such that he believed on God for amazing things, even before God had spoken specifically into the situation and God rewarded his faith - this was what God was looking for in a leader. Do we believe in God for amazing things?

But crucially, in order to be ready we need to consecrate ourselves. "Wait a minute, doesn't God consecrate us?", you might ask. Well, yes... but we have to choose holiness, choose prayer, we have to devote ourselves to God in this moment. Consecrating ourselves means dedicating our lives to God and saying that we are prepared for whatever he brings, we are waiting for his commands and we are ready to go. This means putting aside the things we know are holding us back - we all know what they are and we all have them, but now is the time to consecrate ourselves. We need to be wholly available and ready for this next season because God is about to do amazing things among us as his people. Are we ready for tomorrow?

Fondly Remembering Jenny Lockwood

Jenny Lockwood went to glory in the early hours of Tuesday morning (24th). She came to faith at the age of 21 and was baptised a few years later at Beulah Baptist Church. She came into membership at Battle in 2011 and helped for a number of years at the After School Club. She is particularly fondly remembered by office staff for the wonderful cakes she brought us on a regular basis, a ministry that will be missed. She was a regular member of the Tuesday afternoon house group who were a great support to her during her period of illness in recent months. We remember her daughters Anita and Clare, her sons David and Ian, and granddaughter Victoria Earnshaw (known to many of us) in our prayers at this sad time, but give thanks for all that our sister Jenny meant to us as a fellowship.

There will be a short service on Monday 13th February, 2pm at Hastings Crematorium to which everyone is welcome. Tea will then follow at the Manna House from about 2.45/3pm.

This week's prayer pointers

- ◆ Praise God for the freedom we have to meet this Tuesday evening to pray together. Ask God to move in power as we meet.
  - ◆ Continue to pray for Alpha in February. Pray that God would be preparing hearts and that lives would be changed through the course. Pray that God would give each of us boldness to invite people to attend.
  - ◆ Thank God for all the resources we have, the buildings, the volunteers, and finances. Pray that God would give us wisdom in using all that He provides.
